DIRECTOR, LADY IRWIN COLLEGE: Dr. Anupa Siddhu
91 years ago, a group of visionary women realised that the only route to Indian women's emancipation was through education. These visionaries were Lady Dorothy Irwin, Rajkumari Amrit Kaur, Sarojini Naidu, Aruna Asaf Ali and others. They could comprehend the vast difference and disparity between their lives and that of millions of Indian women who led subjugated lives. Education and employment were recognised as catalysts for empowerment and hence the ALL INDIA WOMEN’S EDUCATION FUND ASSOCIATION (AIWEFA) was established in 1929.

AIWEFA has continued its advocacy of gender parity by presenting policy recommendations at the National and State levels. In recent years AIWEFA has encouraged information sharing among NGOs and has implemented projects at the grassroots level.

AIWEFA - NINA SIBAL MEMORIAL AWARD

AIWEFA - Nina Sibal Award for the differently abled is given by AIWEFA every year, since 2003 to an organisation doing outstanding work for people with special needs.

The award was instituted in the name of (late) Shrimati Nina Sibal, Indian Foreign Service, wife of Shri Kapil Sibal, Senior Advocate & M.P. Rajya Sabha. The Award includes a prize of Rs. 8 lakhs and a citation.
AIWEFA and United Nations

In May 1999, AIWEFA was granted ECOSOC status – NGO in Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. This has provided AIWEFA with an opportunity to generate and sustain international and national concerns through consultation, cooperation and coalition in the larger international arena of the United Nations. The last few years have witnessed a visible AIWEFA presence at international fora.

United Nations NGO IRENE

In September 2003 AIWEFA accepted the role of Regional Coordinator for the United Nations NGO Informal Regional Network (UN NGO IRENE) for India offered by the Department of Economic and Social Affairs Section of the United Nations. This consists of a network for communication and information exchange between national and regional NGOs in consultative status and the NGO Section/UNDESA.

UNFCCC

In 2017 AIWEFA has been granted Observer Status and membership of the Women and Gender Constituency that provides organisations working on women’s rights and gender justice, environmental protection, or both, to influence the annual conferences and shape the UNFCCC outcomes.

AIWEFA Highlights

- AIWEFA hosts and organises seminars and workshops for networking at the International, National and Regional levels to draw attention to, and work out strategies for sustainable development and empowerment of women.
- AIWEFA provides a platform for an exchange of information and consultation between NGOs, civil society, the Government and the U.N. AIWEFA has been regularly represented by its executive committee members at the annual Commission on Status of Women consultations at the United Nations.
- The HRD Standing Committee, at the instance of AIWEFA, initiated consultations with NGOs on gender analysis of the Budget. Since then annual meetings are held to present the women’s perspective on the budget.
- The Parliamentary Standing Committees have invited AIWEFA to make presentations on Micro-credit facilities to women’s Self Help Groups and on the Child Marriage Bill.
- AIWEFA strengthened networking with the Global South Nations to document replicable and scaleable Sustainable Development Goals implementation practices and forming links with affirmative national policies.
- AIWEFA holds awareness workshops and seminars to strengthen the bonding between the old & young.

ACTIVITIES

Turning the pages of history, the activities etched as milestones include:

1929: All India Women’s Education Fund Association was set up to advance the education of women by visionary women of that period and stalwarts of the freedom struggle.

1932: The Home Science college for Women, Lady Irwin College was established to inculcate a scientific temper and remodel women’s education.

1952: Through the college, AIWEFA sought to guide and implement national policy decisions for sustainable education. In response to the Government’s Community & National Extension programmes for all round rural development, AIWEFA has spread the message of education, health and sanitation in the villages around Delhi.

1995: From its preoccupation with the management and expansion of Lady Irwin College, AIWEFA shifted focus to gender issues and urgent social action required for mainstreaming women in the development process.

1996: AIWEFA extended its geographic base to include the North Indian states by establishing partnerships with women Panchayat leaders.

1998: AIWEFA debuted in the regional fora with the SAARC nations conference “Women on the March” on women’s participation in the political process. AIWEFA held legal literacy programmes in Delhi schools.

1999: AIWEFA was granted Special Consultative Status by the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) of the United Nations.

1999-2001: Legal Awareness programmes were conducted for women in 18 villages of Haryana with support from Ford Foundation.

2002-2003: Conferences and seminars were held with stakeholders, Government, private sector, NGOs and civil society on the role of Information Technology in achieving the UN’s Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). Computer awareness classes were conducted in NDMC/MCD primary schools with used computers donated by MTNL.

2002-2005: The ‘Village Adoption Project’ in three Haryana villages was supported by Gas Authority of India (GAIL India) for holistic and sustainable development including health, nutrition, sanitation, education, computer and skill training.

2003: Annual AIWEFA - Nina Sibal Award instituted for an organisation working on disability and assistive technologies.

2003: AIWEFA accepted the role of Regional Coordinator of the United Nation’s Informal Regional Network of NGOs (NGO IRENE).

2004: Presentation was made by AIWEFA at the Parliamentary Standing Committee on “Prevention of Child Marriage Bill, 2004”.

2004-2005: Programmes dedicated to the 75th foundation year included release of an NGO Directory (2nd edition): Shadow Round Table Meet on gender equality; life-time achievement award to Dr. Bindeshwar Pathak, the Stree Ratna Award; a two day seminar on the MDGs and an exhibition & workshop on the “Role of science & technology towards reduction of drudgery in farm and house work.”

2006: Food & Agriculture Organisation (FAO) assisted ‘vegetable nursery-raising’ project in two Haryana villages to improve women’s standard of living, health and nutrition; introduce quality seeds; improved sowing practices; net houses; water and soil conservation; Vermin compost and biogas.

2007-2010: Establishment and management of a Gender Resource Centre (GRC) in Geeta Colony with support from the Social Welfare Board of Delhi Government for overall improvement and development of urban slums. Subsequently named the Samajik Suvida Kendra (SSK) with convergence of various services of Delhi Government for the BPL families.

2008: UNIFEM sponsored workshops on “Violence Against Women & HIV/AIDS” were held in and around Delhi.

2008-2011: “Agricultural Resource Centre” set up with support from Department of Science & Technology (DST), Government of India, to upgrade and marry traditional knowledge with scientific technological innovations to reduce drudgery and empower 300 Haryana farm women in improved agricultural practices.

2009-2010: Representation at conference of UN-NGO-IRENE, Asia Pacific at Beijing, China; ECOSOC High Level segment meeting at Geneva; UNFCCC Conferences at Paris, Bangkok and Copenhagen; Convention on Sustainable Development (CSD) at New York.

2012-2013: Supported by the Ministry of New & Renewable Energy (MNRE) nine Solar Fairs cum Training Workshops were held in Haryana villages. Two National Seminars on ‘Solar & Green Energy’ were held in New Delhi.

2013-2014: AIWEFA organised six workshops on “Cyber Security” for Delhi Colleges and NGOs; Parenting workshop in Resident Welfare Association; Statistical Package for Social Sciences (SPSS) workshop for research students.

2014-2015: 85th foundation year celebrations included programmes in women’s skill development, safety, sanitation and cyber security.
