AIWEFA - An Introduction

All India Women's Education Fund Association i.e. AIWEFA was founded in 1929 under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi and vibrant women stalwarts of the freedom movement like Sarojini Naidu, Rajkumari Amrit Kaur, Aruna Asaf Ali, Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay, Annie Besant among others for empowering women.

Education was recognised as the catalytic agent for social change, and in 1932, AIWEFA founded the Home Science College, Lady Irwin College, New Delhi to bring a scientific temper among women's education. For the last eight and a half decades, AIWEFA's programmes in rural and urban areas have been implemented to promote holistic and sustainable development for welfare of communities.

Activities promote education and training of women for family and child care, environmental sustainability, health and nutrition, development of rural families through introduction of drudgery reducing equipments for agricultural management, women's skill development, women's political representation and programmes to fight violence against women.

Combining academic strength with sound implementation and training strategies, AIWEFA campaigns and mobilises through its field projects, seminars, workshops, publications and networking, to bring about a sustainable approach to human development and advancement of the weaker sections. Partners include NGOs (India Alliance for Child Rights, Sulabh International), government (Department of Science & Technology, MNRE, Delhi State), public sector (GAIL), corporate (NIIT), and bilateral agencies (UNESCO, FAO, Ford Foundation, UN Women, UNICEF, UNIFEM etc.). In 1999, AIWEFA was granted the “NGO in Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC)”. In 2003, AIWEFA accepted the role of Regional Coordinator of the UN’s Informal Regional Network of NGOs (NGO IRENE).

A one day workshop was organized by All India Women’s Education Fund Association (AIWEFA) on “Promoting Intergenerational Bonding” supported by National Institute of Social Defence (NISD) Ministry of Social Justice, at Shivaji College, University of Delhi, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. on 10 January 2017.

The theme was chosen to promote intergenerational interaction that is becoming a challenging scenario in the families during the adolescent period in particular. The rapidly changing society has resulted in eroding of the traditional cultural values, widening the gap in values, beliefs and attitudes between the generations. The growing youth trying to discover their identity and self-find themselves under immense pressure of being controlled and disciplined by family and other adults in the society to conform to the stereo typed behavioral expectation. The breaking down of the harmonious group dynamics results in undesirable behavior patterns drifting the two generations apart instead of being a source of emotional support.

The workshop was very successful and well received. It was well attended by about 200 students of the college (mainly I year & II year students) and about 50 adults (mainly senior citizens) from college faculty, AIWEFA executives, HelpAge, Confederation of Senior Citizens’ Associations of Delhi, Gharunda Old Age Home and RWAs.

The event was well advertised through posters and word of mouth at the college. The NSS team, along with NCC of the college were of great help. Dr. Shashi Nijhawan, Principal, Shivaji College, Dr. Mridula Budhiraja, Incharge NSS, Shivaji college, Ms. Shweta Gautam, Faculty, Shivaji College, also the convener for the above workshop and NSS student-president Ms. Tanya extended whole hearted support in organizing the workshop very meticulously and smoothly.

The two banners were put up at strategic positions; one at the main gate of college and the other one outside the auditorium.
I INAUGURAL SESSION
(01:00 p.m. to 01:20 p.m.)

The workshop commenced with a welcome address by Ms. Shweta Gautam, faculty Shivaji college and convener of the workshop.

Dr. Sridhara C. Ranga Reddy, Deputy Director, NISD and Chief Guest, inaugurated the workshop by lamp lighting, which was joined by Dr. Shashi Nijhawan and others.

Ms. Sarla Manchanda, Vice President, AIWEFA introduced her 87 year old NGO, established under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi and founder of Lady Irwin College, New Delhi. She explained about its various services rendered to promote holistic and sustainable development for welfare of communities. AIWEFA’s activities promote education and training of women for family and child care, environmental sustainability, health and nutrition, development of rural families through introduction of drudgery reducing equipments for agricultural management, women's skill development, women's political representation and programmes to fight violence against women. Combining academic strength with sound implementation and training strategies, AIWEFA campaigns and mobilises through its field projects, seminars, workshops, publications and networking, to bring about a sustainable approach to human development and advancement of the weaker sections. In 1999, AIWEFA was granted the “NGO in Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC)”. In 2003, AIWEFA accepted the role of Regional Coordinator of the UN’s Informal Regional Network of NGOs (NGO IRENE).

Dr. Reddy elaborated the role of NISD in taking care of the senior citizens. He appreciated the role of AIWEFA in organizing the workshop and said that the theme is very relevant to the activities of the Institute. He discussed a few issues related to the theme and how our concerted efforts can help in improving intergenerational relations. He assured that NISD will be interested in working with AIWEFA in future as well on other aspects associated with the theme.
II. TECHNICAL SESSION

Dr. Renu Malaviya, Associate Professor of Education Lady Irwin College and expert on Conflict Resolution of students, also the author of the book, entitled “Role Overload & Work-Family Conflicts: Managing Personal and Professional Life” conducted the technical session.

The session was presented in an interesting manner having a dialogue with the participants and videos and short films were screened to have a common understanding related to the main issues of the theme. Dr. Renu Malaviya facilitated the session and elaborated on the challenges concerned in intergenerational interaction getting the students from the floor involved. The hand out given by her clearly stated that healthy relationships will never require both parties to sacrifice their goals, dreams or dignity. She highlighted the role of trust, cooperation, support, honesty and accountability as the key values that foster mutual respect in relationships. Her suggestions related to bonding through technology of mobile use, email, twitter, whatsapp and other social media options captured the interest of the students and were very well received as means of relating to members of the senior generations. For this youngsters have to take a lead to make seniors well conversant with their use.

III PANEL DISCUSSION:
(02:00 p.m. to 02:40 p.m.)

The third session of panel discussion managed varied stake holders to express their viewpoints. Besides AIWEFA it included panelists from all the partner organizations, viz, Shivaji college faculty & students, HelpAge, Confederation of Senior Citizens Associations of Delhi (an umbrella body of 11 lakh senior citizens), Gharunda Old Age Home, as well as legal expert and subject experts. The panel discussion was moderated by Dr. Renu Malaviya

Three short video films were also projected on the screen before starting the discussion.

Dr. Nishtha, Associate Professor, Shivaji College very eloquently spoke about patience, connectivity, communication, attitude and mind set and how these if kept in balance and at the right place enable us value relationships. She expressed that the old people always want youngsters’ respect, time, love and care which they deserve and in return shower their unconditional blessings.

Two senior citizens Shri J.R. Gupta, Chairperson of Confederation of Senior Citizens Associations of Delhi (an umbrella body of 11 lakh senior citizens) and Shri. Bhatia, Active Facilitator of Gharunda Old Age Home virtually stole the hearts of the audience by their views of how much it means to old parents or grandparents the little attention and emotional support they get from their progeny and young generations. Both highlighted the traditional values of respecting elders and taking care of them. They also narrated some case studies, some of course very sad and bitter and expressed what old people expect from their off springs and how they themselves can help to reduce the gap. Mr. Arun kumar & Mr. Rohit Dhingra of HelpAge were of great help for connecting us with seniors like Shri Gupta & Shri Bhatia.

Tanya Chadha and Yathansh Prakash, students of NSS from Shivaji College also shared their experiences with their parents and grandparents. With digitization of most of the daily activities, the notion that the present generation is more knowledgeable is gaining ground; leading to loss of interest in the older generation and finally neglect. The gap is widening and will worsen unless timely remedial steps are taken. The seniors are hurt when ignored, they crave for attention and love and the young generation needs to spend time with them and small gestures of love and affection please them and make them feel happy and more secure. They related their personal experiences of interacting with grandparents and how valuable those moments were for them and they would cherish those for a long time.

Three representatives of AIWEFA took part in the panel discussion.

Ms. Bulbul Das: A practicing Lawyer with special interest in Women’s & Children’s issues and Legal Advisor to many government and non-government organizations, briefly described the provision of various Laws and Acts that have been formed to protect the interests and rights of the old people and senior citizens. She mentioned how different religions have different provisions related to property, inherence and maintenance aspects. It was highlighted that societal changes have changed the traditional values where elderly ruled the family till the last day of their life. She described the provisions of the recently enacted Act which irrespective of religion makes children/off springs responsible to take care of their parents and elderly {Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007} is a legislation enacted in 2007, initiated by Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, Government of India, to provide more effective provision for maintenance and welfare of parents and senior citizens. This Act make it a legal obligation for children and heirs to provide maintenance to senior citizens and parents, by monthly allowance. This Act also provides simple, speedy and inexpensive mechanism for the protection of life and Mrs Sarla Manchanda shared her personal experiences of warm and close interaction she has with her grandchildren and expressed her happiness about the immensely enriched life due to the healthy bonding. She emphasized that the parents are the role models, when it comes to taking care of and respecting elders are concerned. The middle generation has to play a healthy role to emulate positive values.

Prof. Dr. Adarsh Sharma, Former Associate Professor of Child Development at University of Delhi, Professor at G.B.Pant University of Agriculture & Technology and Ambedkar University of Delhi. Former Director, National Institute of Public Cooperation and Child Development (NIPCCD), Ministry of Women & Child Development, GOI, the SUBJECT-EXPERT wrapped up the panel discussion with her comments. She highlighted the main points made in the presentations of panelists. She cited the scenario of generational clash portrayed so effectively in the Bellwood movie Bagban and mentioned that if students present in the audience have seen it they would understand the sensitive issues involved in the theme. She pointed out that it is a matter of heart and stems from warmth one can convey which makes all the difference. Socialization within the family and warm parenting aimed at fostering human values can only ensure healthy bonding across generations. She ended by saying that it is hoped the effort of AIWEFA will make every one introspect and try to bring harmony in relationship and ensure dignity and respect for all concerned.
IV. ACTIVITY SESSION
(02:40 to 03:30)

The Activity session was the big draw with the students; they were getting excited like crazy. It was conducted by Ms. Sunaina Mehra, a young motivational speaker, with whom students could relate well and who boosted up the programme by different activities.

The main aim of the session was to reconnect the students with their parents and grandparents. The session started with posters on students’ ideas as how to promote the intergenerational bonding. All the students participated actively. In one particular activity about 100 students wrote down their short stories on a paper and 10 students shared their best and cherished memories with everyone.

She introduced a club formation through an App group for continuity of the activities related to the theme. She was very effective in expressing her views on what all the youngsters can do and should do to give happiness to their elders and parents. She pointed out that elders provide scaffoldings to children and do sacrifices so that the offsprings have the best during their growing years. This remains unnoticed by youngsters most of the time. She reminded that the young generation realizes how precious their presence was only after they are gone.

She also facilitated administration of the Questionnaire designed by AIWEFA to get a feedback from the students on the theme.

In the last activity the students burnt their negative thoughts in the form of chits and took pledge and promised that they will always respect and understand their parents and grandparents and fulfill their dreams.
V. CONCLUDING SESSION
(03:30 p.m. to 04:00 p.m.)

The whole workshop was a great success. Refreshments were served to all the participants. Feedback forms were filled and Ms. Sunaina Mehra extended the vote of thanks on behalf of AIWEFA.
